Make Friends with the Ball.

One of the most essential things to do, to excel in lawn tennis is to keep your eye on the ball the whole of the time it is in play. writes Alan E. Norman in the Daily Chronicle. It is also one of the hardest things to do.

It seems a simple enough matter, but next time you play try and find out how often the cause of your missing a stroke is due to allowing your eye to leave the ball.

The truth is, to make a habit of keeping your eye on the ball

CRICKET PRODIGY.

Australian Marvel.

Australian's latest recruit to the ranks of cricket prodigies is Charles Sherriff, a boy of 16, who hails from Melbourne. He has established a new world's record by scoring 1,004 runs without being actually dismissed, his batting figures being: 56 not out, 84 (retired), 91 not out, 116 not out, 156 not out, 205 not out and 296 not out. Playing for Good-fellowship against Blackburn at Melbourne, his remarkable score of 296 not out contained fifteen 6s, and forty-four 4s. In the first over he received he made 27, the next 24, and later in one eight-ball over he piled up 38, including three consecutive 6s. Sherriff also heads the bowling averages of his club, capturing 25 wickets at a cost of five runs apiece, whilst he is a very promising wicket-keeper. He is said to possess all the attributes of a first-class cricketer and a great future is predicted for him.

UPSET BY NAVAL SIGNALS.

Admiralty Considering Wave Length Alteration.

As complaints are being received that naval wireless signalling is interfering with broadcasting near naval stations the Admiralty is considering the advisability of reducing the destroyer wave length, says a Home paper.

At present communication with small naval craft is effected in home port areas on a wave length of 310 metres.

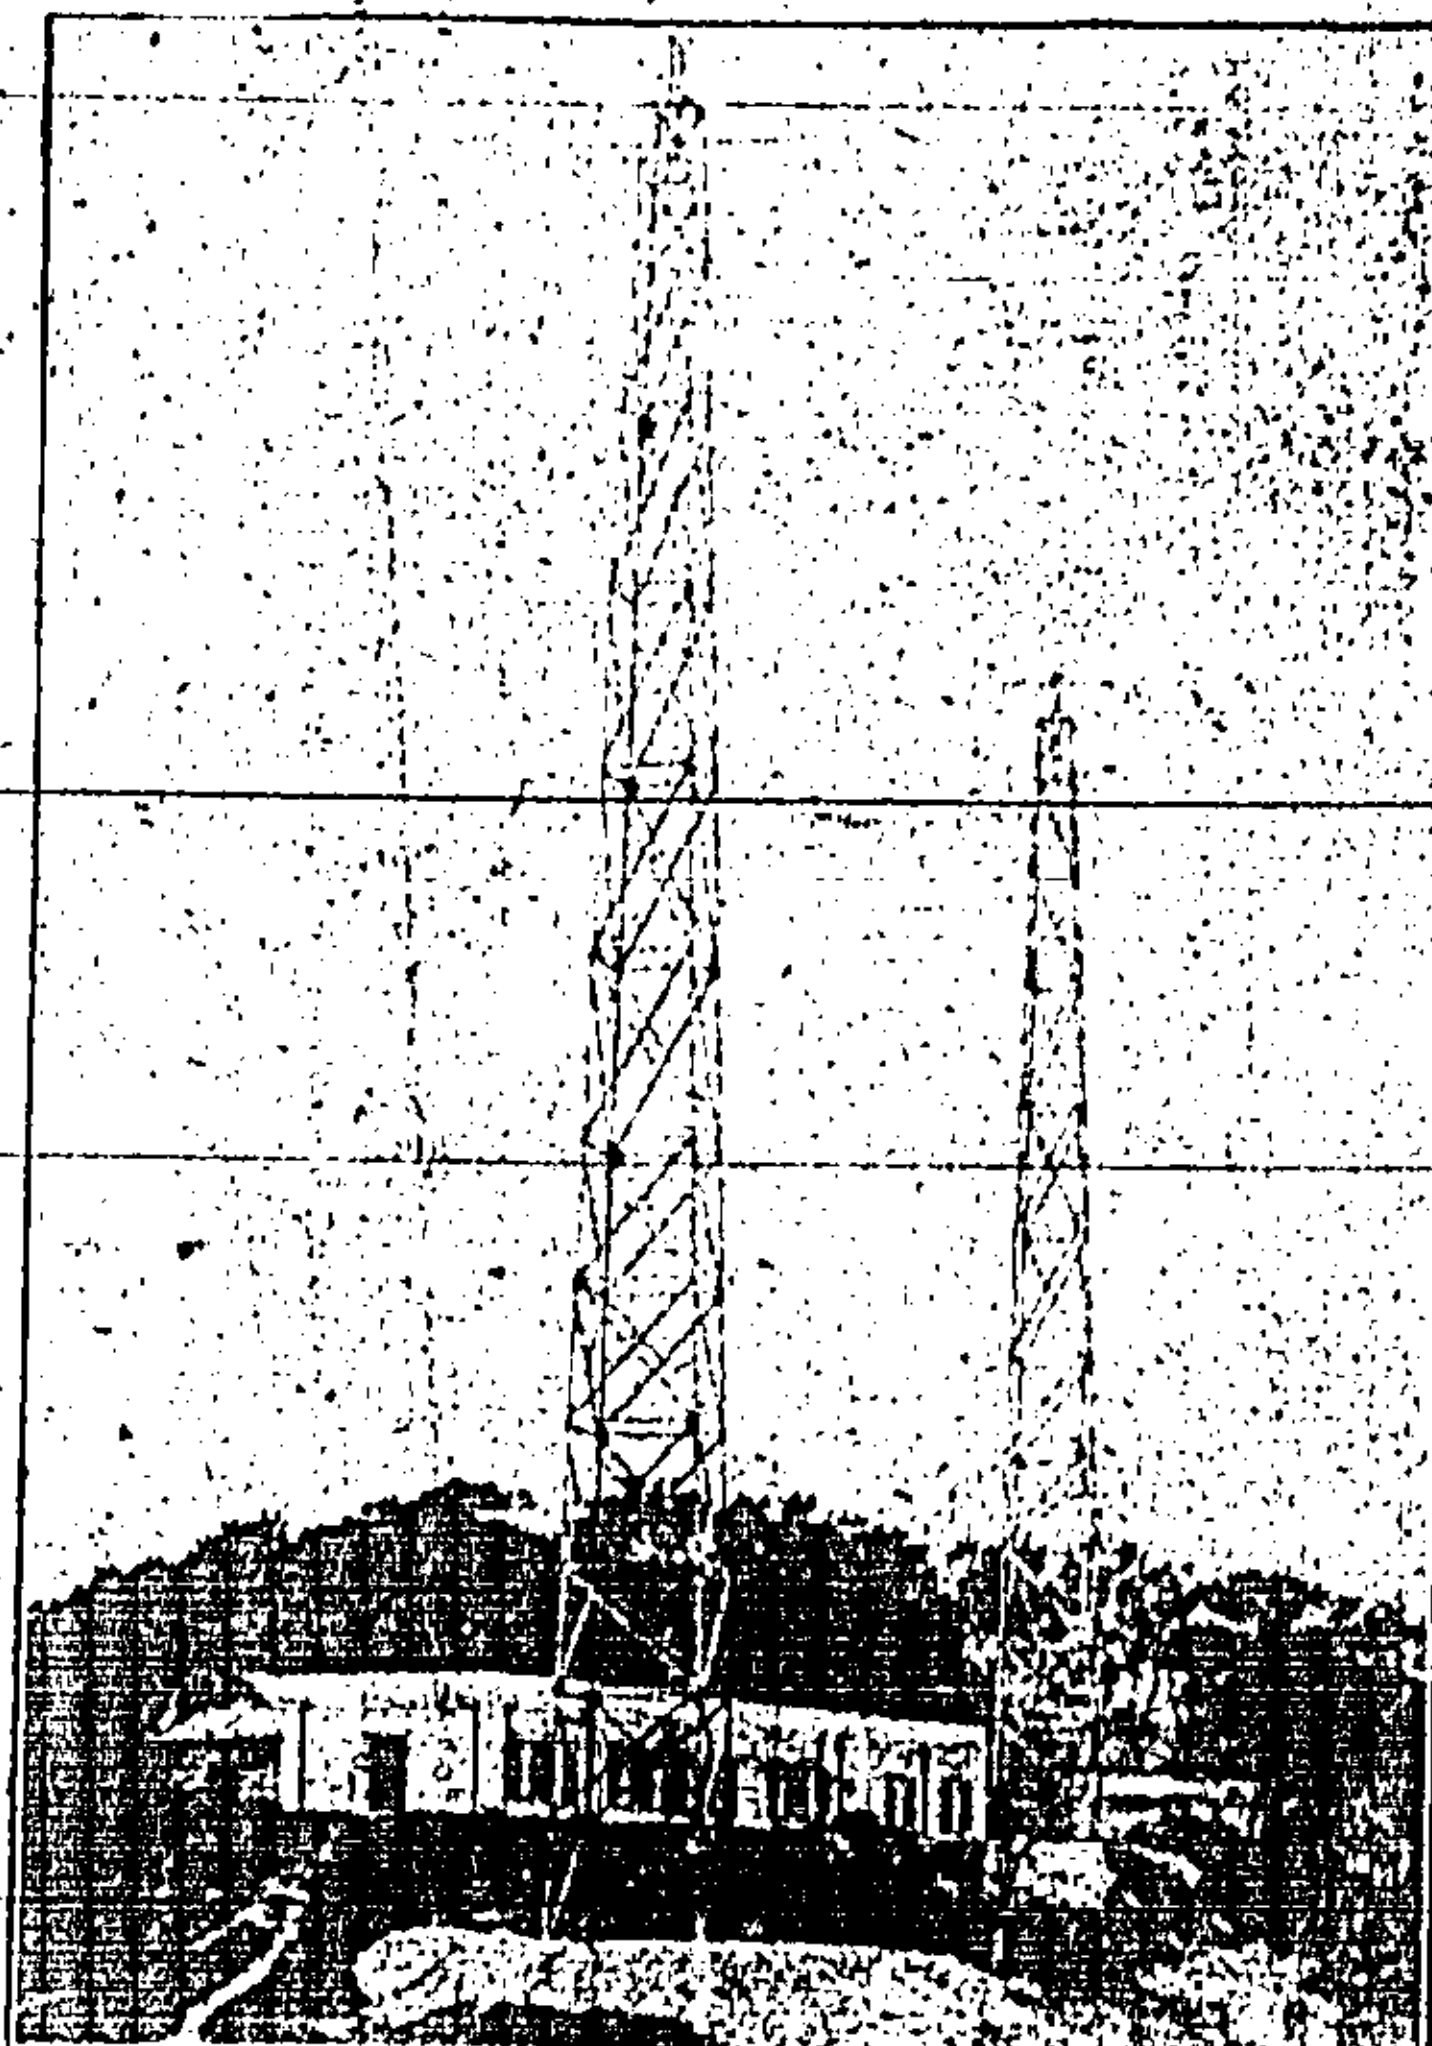

Pending the decision of the Admiralty orders have been given at Portsmouth that signalling between 7 o'clock and 10.30 each evening is to be avoided as far as possible.

WHAT A PEACH!

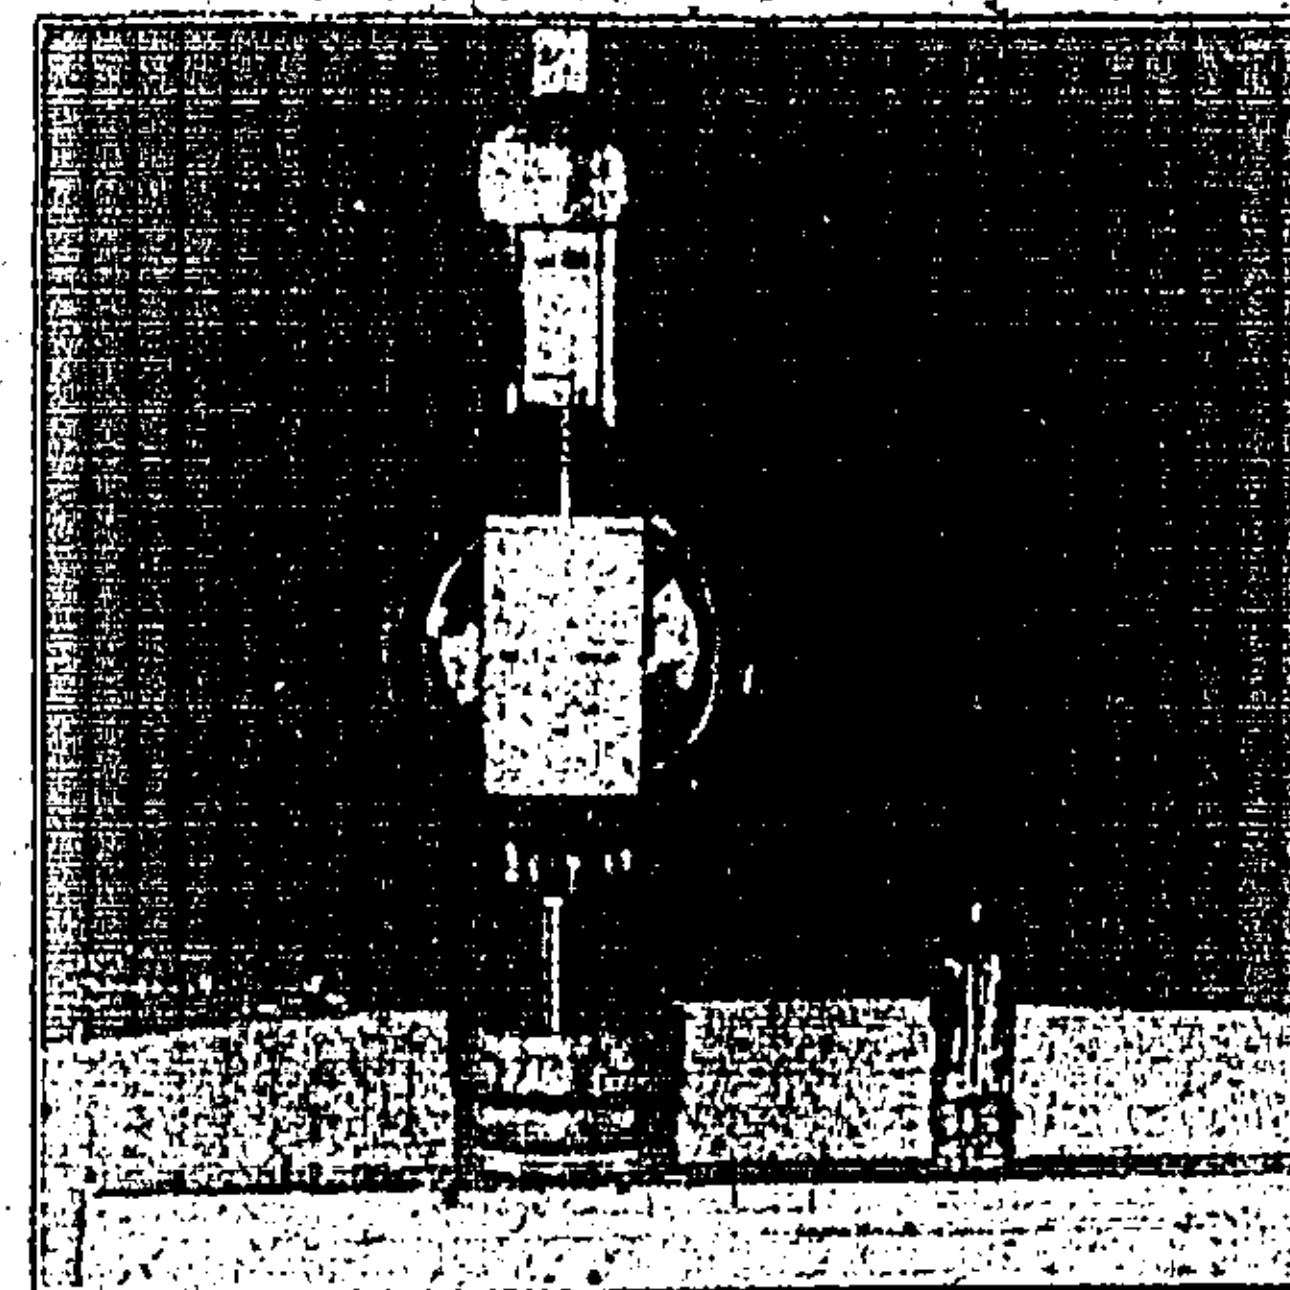

Peach, the Surrey bowler, took 4 wickets with successive balls against Sussex at the Oval last month. Only 15 other players have accomplished this feat in first-class cricket, and the last occasion on which it was done was in 1914.

MACAO RADIO STATION.

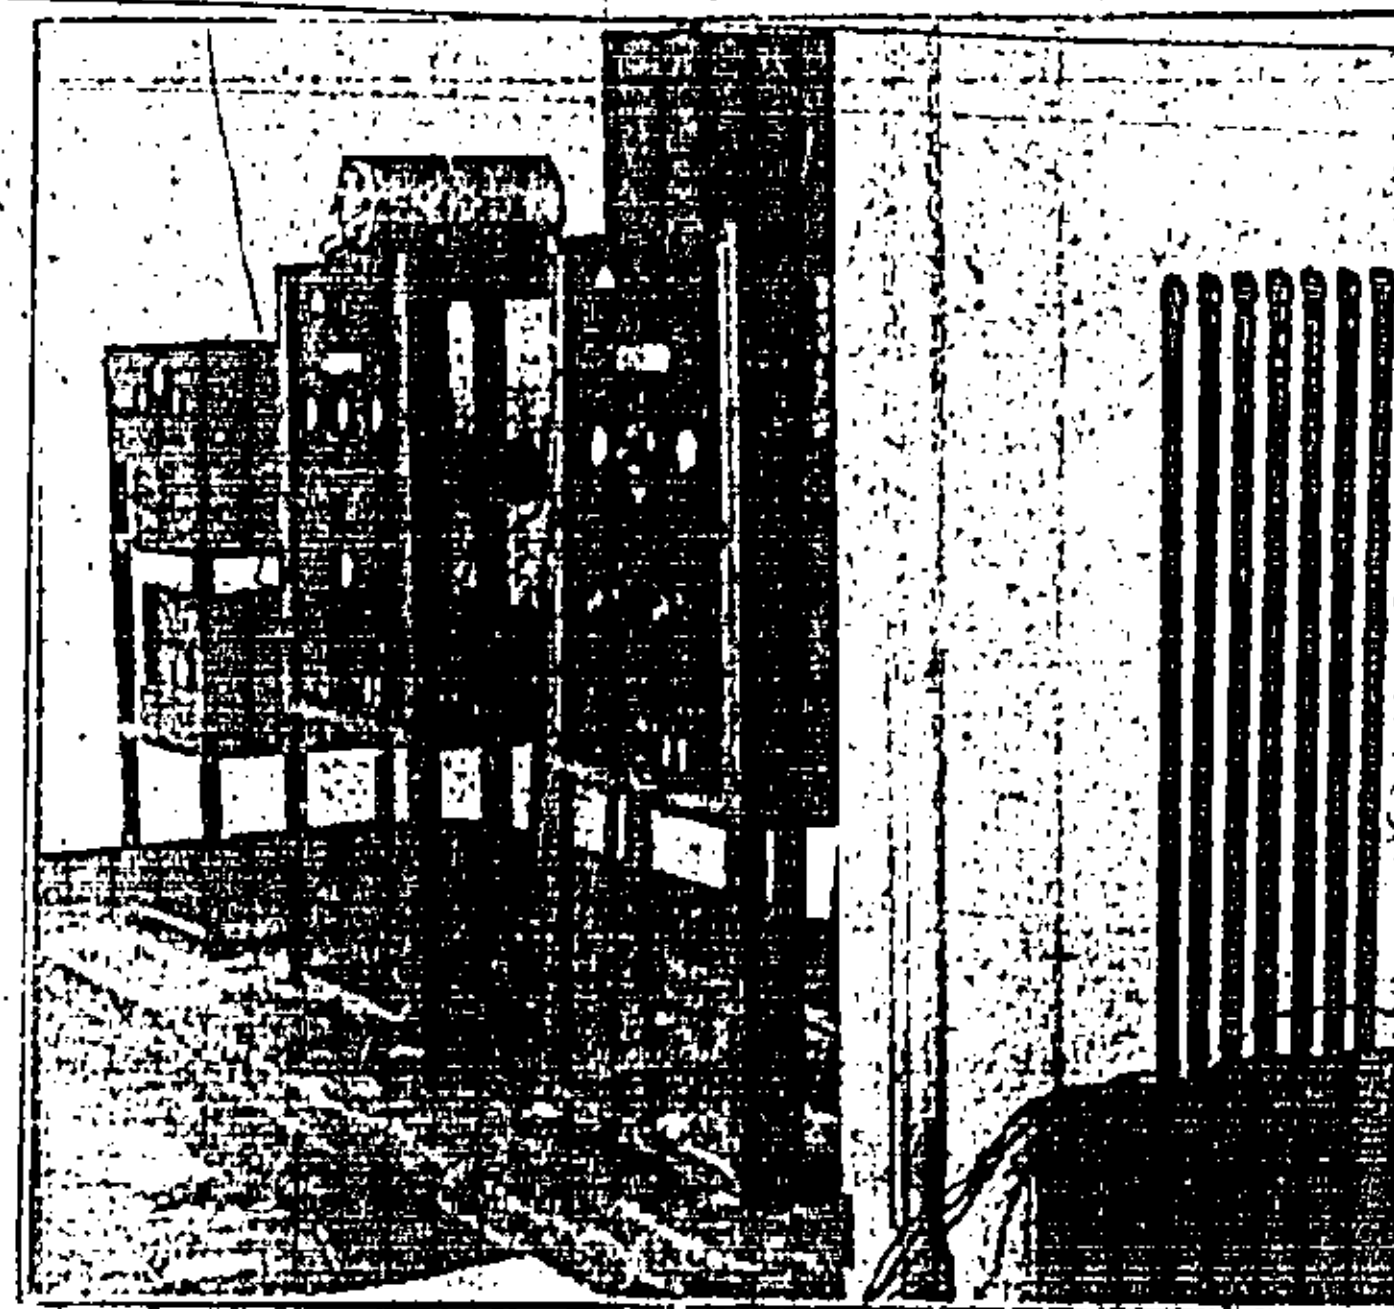

Three Interesting Pictures.

Here is a general view of the new radio station and antenna system erected in Macao by the Radio Communication Company (Orient), Ltd.

Here is shown one of the big transmitting valves used at Macao, compared in size to a modern receiving tube.

This picture shows the three main transmitting panels of the Macao station, where the vacuum tubes are operated.

IF YOU CANNOT FEED BABY YOURSELF—

Give him Glaxo. He will start to grow up strong and well, because Glaxo contains just the same bone-making, brainbuilding, muscle-producing materials as healthy breast milk.

To make Glaxo, just add the required quantity of hot water (that has been boiled) and you have ready for Baby a perfect food.

Remember too, Glaxo has no disease germs in it. Your Baby cannot be troubled with the dangers that come with ordinary cow's milk.

ARMED ROBBERIES.

HAUL OF OVER $1,300.

Further details of the armed robbery occurring yesterday morning at No 346 Des Vaux Road West showed that two women sleeping in one of the cubicles were robbed of their personal jewellery, and that an attaché case, containing money and jewellery, was also stolen, the total haul being $1,326 in value.

Sleeping in the same room, they were surprised when the robbers entered, but induced to keep quiet whilst the latter made a minute search of the room. A man sleeping on a couch in the parlour was confronted by a third man who held a revolver before his eyes. Nothing daunted, he gave chase when the robbers left, but lost sight of them in the turning from Whitty Street into Queen's Road West.

Later, the police picked up the attaché case which was discarded in Third Street, but found that its valuable contents had been removed. Only some private papers, which were of no value to the robbers, remained. Near the spot a toy pistol, which appears to have been the weapon displayed by the gang, was also recovered.

The robbers were three in number, and they appear to have gone about their task with the utmost confidence. In this connection, the man employed by the household is being held by the police for enquiries.

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

The value of the loot taken away by robbers raiding a grocer shop in the border town of Shatukok, is put at $572. Details

THE DOPE TRAFFIC.

BIG SEIZURE ON ITALIAN VESSEL.

New York, July 15.

Officials raided an Italian steamer arriving from Genoa this morning, and seized six hundred packages of narcotics, which were allegedly intended to be smuggled into the country. Customs agents thereupon took possession of the vessel for a more complete search. Some of the ship's officers and a number of the crew have been arrested. — Reuter's American Service.

are to hand to the effect that entry was gained through the window. The employees were all bundled into the kitchen, but one of them, who did not display enough agility, was knocked on the head with the butt-end of a revolver. There were ten armed men engaged in this raid, and they escaped over the border.

AT COSMOPOLITAN DOCK.

Yet another armed robbery is to be reported. This morning at about 7.30, three men armed with revolvers and another with a revolver and a dagger, entered the coolie quarters at the Cosmopolitan Dock, and, after binding and gagging the inmates, all of whom were women (the men being at work), they stole clothing, money and jewellery to the value of nearly a thousand dollars.

Later, a detective arrested one man in connection with the affair at Tai Kok Tsui, with a dagger in his possession. This man gave the name of the three others, two of whom are believed to be employed at the Dock.

NAVY LEAGUE.

FLAG DAY FOR HONGKONG.

At a meeting of the Committee of the local branch of the Navy League, held last evening, it was decided to celebrate "Trafalgar Day" (October 21st) by the holding of a flag day, the proceeds from which will be devoted to the Overseas Relief Fund. On the same evening, a concert will be given in the City Hall, and the day thus fittingly celebrated.

LORD BEATTY AND OUR SEA SERVICE.

Admiral of the Fleet Lord Beatty recently opened an All Empire Navy League Fair at Australia House in aid of the Navy League and its Sea Cadet Corps.

He welcomed the opportunity to extend a greeting to so many of those who came from the great Dominions overseas, and whose interest meant a great deal to the Navy. He often thought, he said, that in the great Dominions and in the outlying portions of the Empire people were better able to judge of the vital importance of the Navy than those whose homes were in the Mother Country; not that it was possible to extinguish that sense which was inherent in every inhabitant of the British Isles. The work of the Navy League primarily consisted in trying to inculcate into the minds of all the importance of the Navy in the defence of the Empire, and as a guarantee for the peace of the world. The Navy League was often a most stern critic of the Admiralty. They welcomed such criticism, for they were sure it was fair, just, and based on national and imperial interests. They knew at the Admiralty that the objects of the Navy League were identical with their own. Its charitable work was world-wide. Ever since its foundation the League had never failed in its activities to assist distressed and suffering among men of the Royal Navy and the mercantile marine and their dependents.

With regard to training ships and the sea cadet corps, the League had endeavoured, and had succeeded, in instilling into the young generation the sea sense upon which the foundations of the Empire were built, and its work in that direction was a great national asset. The overseas branches of the Navy League were an asset of great value, and he wished them all success in instilling into the public mind what our requirements were and what the Navy meant to the Empire.

TYPHOON SEASON.

NO. 1 SIGNAL HOISTED.

The No. 1 warning typhoon signal is again up, having been hoisted at 10.19 this morning.

The Observatory gives warning of a typhoon of unknown intensity within 60 miles of Lat. 21, Long. 118. Its direction being unknown. This reading places the typhoon near the Balintang Channel.

Two warnings have been received from Manila, one reporting a typhoon near or over the southern part of the Formosa Channel, moving south-west; and the other speaks of a typhoon east of Southern Formosa, inclining northwards.

The Observatory says the two typhoons east of Formosa appear to have merged, another having formed between Pratas and Koshum, its direction of motion unknown.

The forecast for the 24 hours ending at noon to-morrow, for Hongkong and district, is east winds, possibly increasing to a gale from the north-east; over east: rain.

BOYS' BRIGADE AND CADET FORCE.

The executive committee of the Boys' Brigade have decided that it is not possible for battalions or companies of the Boys' Brigade to accept the new conditions of Cadet recognition, and all units have been withdrawn from the Cadet Force. Under the old regulations, while certain privileges were accorded to recognized units, no sacrifice of independence or methods was required, and a certain number of companies of the Boys' Brigade, with the approval of their Churches, availed themselves of these facilities. The new regulations, however, require affiliation to a military unit, and lay down that the training must conform to a syllabus laid down by the military authorities.

SONG

(Made extempore by a gentleman, occasioned by a fly drinking out of his cup of ale.)

Busy, curious, thirsty fly,
Drink with me, and drink as I;
Freely welcome to my cup,
Couldst thou sip and sip it up.
Make the most of life you may;
Life is short and wears away.

Both alike are mine and time,
Hastening quick to their decline;
Thine's a summer, mine nor more,
Though repeated to threescore;
Threescore summers, when they're gone,
Will appear as short as one.

JEWELS.

I have been reading in a paper that American women have grown so rich that jewels have almost lost their value. That is, the wealth has been so universally spent on gems that diamonds are getting common. Even the humblest member of the community wears precious stones, and that makes it awkward for the society ladies whose claim to distinction was their blazing collection of costly trinkets.

There is much that is fascinating about the diamond. The flash and sheen of the facets captivate the imagination. What crimes have been committed to possess the world's great gems! The Koh-i-Nur had a curse of blood upon it until the spell was broken when the huge diamond passed from India into the hands of the British Sovereign. The Lake of Fire was responsible for many murders; it left Delhi for Europe; the fatalistic curse of evil upon the Hope diamond is well known. The late Czar's dynasty had its fatal "Orlov" and the Habsburgs their Fountain of Light.

Yet, what are these diamonds but mere stones, valueless in a practical sense! On a desert island, starving for want of food, what would be a Monte Cristo collection of gems! Nothing but a mockery. Better a crust of bread than all the world's great diamonds—such would be the action of the starving wretch fighting with useless wealth at his feet. For the diamond has no artificial value, built up by the fact that these beautiful objects are the possession only of those who can afford to pay for them.

In Golconda the simple natives were found by the first explorers decking themselves with diamonds computed to be worth hundreds of thousands of pounds. They willingly parted with them for a piece of a looking-glass or a strip of coloured cloth. The first black diamonds of Brazil were bartered for an old musket. So the tale runs on, how gradually the value of the precious stones was realised even by the Indians and the "untutored savages", and then bloodshed and violence began.

Diamonds have a lure for women which has often proved fatal. To possess them, what follies have been committed. Those valueless valuables have been called "The Devil's Trinkets". Let us put them in their proper place and say that they are beautiful and adorn when worn in moderation. But if they are obtained through greed or the sacrifice of honour, their glitter and their lustre are but emblems of dishonour.

Good deeds are diamonds which never cease to sparkle. Good reputation is a pearl of price. Our honour is a gem which should shine in the eyes of all the world. Kind thoughts and sympathetic actions—these are precious stones indeed. So that, gathering such real gems, we think of those wonderful words: "They shall be as Mine, when He make up his jewels."

THE EXHIBITION.

Despite all the enthusiasm, and special facilities, and attractions of Wembley, to say nothing of the intensive campaign of free advertising which the Empire Exhibition has had in the newspaper press, the number of visitors has been much less than was expected. This must be disappointing to the promoters, and we gather that it will also prove something of a financial loss. A great deal of the trouble taken to complete the exhibition in time for the advertised opening date was discounted by the wretched weather that ushered in the spring and persisted for more than a month. This kept away some tens of thousands who might have attended, besides discouraging many thousands from paying future visits, for first impressions count in such things as in most others. And one cannot overlook the effect of the strike of workmen at a critical period of the preparations. When Wembley was opened important sections were not yet completed, and besides the inconvenience suffered by exhibitors whose premises lacked finishing touches, there was the rather bleak prospect offered to early arrivals who saw much of the debris of the weeks of preparation, and had a general sense of incompleteness, whilst the exhibition area itself was for a considerable time a sea of mud. Finally, there was the impossibility of providing adequate transport arrangements. Nevertheless, once everything got going properly, including the fine weather, the people poured through the gates of Wembley and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. With the date for closing the exhibition drawing near, it is now discovered that this final push has been insufficient to make up for the early disorganisation.

To-day's cables mention a suggestion to hold the Empire Exhibition again next year, so as to enable the heavy expenditure entailed by exhibitors to be spread over two years. Also, it will enable the losses this year to be made up, even though those might not be great. Granted the approval of exhibitors, who will have to leave their goods in storage, and in the case of overseas participants perhaps make another journey to England, this would be a very good idea. Public support should be almost as great as this year, and that will be all that will be required; but when it comes to the participation by various Colonial native sections, we fear that difficulties will arise. It would serve no purpose to pretend that there has not been a certain amount of dissatisfaction on the part of those whose wants were not fully realised or provided for, and the first enthusiasm must have worn off a good deal. To reopen Wembley is a laudable idea, deserving of every encouragement, so we can only trust that there will not prove to be any insuperable obstacle in the way. That the exhibition has benefited the overseas territories is already claimed by those competent to judge, and even were there no Wembley next year the lessons of Inter-Empire trade prospects, and general co-operation, have already been fully demonstrated. In that respect alone the exhibition has been a great success.

"Oslo."

This is the name by which the capital of Norway will be known as from the beginning of next year, by virtue of a Bill which has recently passed both Houses of the Norwegian Parliament. In common with many others, we have been wondering what significance attaches to the change from Christiania to Oslo, and we are indebted to a Norwegian friend for an explanation thereof. It seems that Oslo was the name by which the city was originally known up to the year 1624, when, whilst Norway was united with Denmark, the Danish-Norwegian King Christian IV., during a visit to the Norwegian capital, took it into his head to name the city after himself and called it Christiania. The Danish-Norwegian union, it may be mentioned, lasted until the year 1814. The reversion to the name of Oslo is merely indicative of the growth of Norwegian national feeling, and although the change may for a time cause a little inconvenience, one cannot but appreciate the reason for the change. After all, we easily accustom ourselves to changes in name places—witness the case of the Russian capital, which we now only dimly remember as St. Petersburg. Since the war, that name has twice been changed, Petrograd having recently been substituted by Leningrad, by which the capital is now known. So we shall soon forget that the chief city of Norway was once named Christiania, and, incidentally, the change will come as a welcome relief to schoolboys, who will find the new name far easier to spell than the old!

Motor Regulations.

A motorist yesterday who stated that he was not acquainted with all the traffic regulations was informed by one of our Magistrates that he could read them in the Government Gazette or in the columns of the newspapers. Now, it is true that the Gazette publishes the regulations in full and when they are revised, but, despite the fact that this organ is the Colony's official journal, we fear that it does not enjoy a wide circulation amongst the general community. Equally, it is quite impossible for the newspapers to give space to a title of the regulations, which cover many pages in the official organ. Moreover, even if this were not so, one casual insertion of the regulations would be of little benefit to the motorist. An idea occurs to us that it might be possible for the authorities to supply all motorists with printed copies of the chief regulations affecting car and cycle owners, so that there could be no excuse of ignorance of the rules. We are well aware that more publication in the Gazette is sufficient from the official standpoint, and that everybody is presumed to be acquainted with the law as it stands. However, a little assistance indicated would not be amiss, and it might well result in the regulations being better observed than they now are.

CASE.QUESTION OF UNDUE
INFLUENCE.The case in which Rosa do
Lima Gutierrez claims probate (as sole executrix) of the will of the late Francisco Maria Gutierrez of Hongkong, to whom she was housekeeper for some years, was continued before Mr.
Justice Gompertz yesterday afternoon. As we reported yesterday, the children of the deceased oppose the will on the grounds that it was executed by their father under the plaintiff's influence, it having always been his intention that the income from his property should go to his housekeeper for the term of her life and then the estate pass to his children absolutely.Mrs. Maria Gutierrez, a daughter of the deceased, gave evidence of her father having continued his affectionate regard for his children up to the time of his death.Mr. G. M. Gutierrez, brother of the deceased, stated that he frequently met his brother during the years of estrangement from his (deceased) wife. Their meetings continued until shortly prior to his brother's death. Plaintiff was usually present when he went to the house, except when she was absent in Church on Sundays. He described the arrangement for a private telephone between their homes,
which, he said, was prevented by the plaintiff, who, despite protests, ordered the work to cease. Witness urged his brother to assert himself, but the latter replied that he was not well and would rather give way to the housekeeper.On another occasion, said witness, his brother called on him one Sunday, and while they were together conversing the plaintiff came to the house and called to the deceased. Witness urged him to stay, but he replied:
"Better let me go. I shall get into trouble if I don't go."Witness further stated that his brother used to borrow small sums of money for occasional luxuries, declaring that if he carried money about on his person it would be taken away from him by the plaintiffs. One day he arranged to take his brother across to look at a piece of land with a view to purchasing it. When he called at deceased's house, he was obstructed by the plaintiff, who eventually locked the two brothers into the room. Witness left in disgust when his brother, he said, expressed a fear that if he insisted on going out the housekeeper might hit him.A day or two before his brother died, said witness, he received a telephone message through a third party to take the deceased's banking books to his home. This request, it later transpired, was actuated
by the plaintiff. Arrived there, witness stood talking to his brother, who was lying in bed,
without mentioning the books,
but the housekeeper loomed over and, shaking deceased by the shoulder, said: "Ask him for your bank book." When the books had been handed over, deceased gave them to the plaintiff to keep.
Questioned by counsel for the defence, witness declared thathis brother was absolutely dominated by the plaintiff, and had no will of his own. The further hearing was then adjourned until this morning.

TO-DAY'S HEARING.

When the case was resumed
this morning, Mr. S. Maria Gutierrez, the brother of deceased, described in detail the happenings at the house on the night
prior to the death of deceased.
He (witness) told his brother that he had arranged for a priest to come the following morning and asked him to prepare for his visit.Witness said "Will you forgive your wife?" and his brother replied "Yes; I forgive my wife, and all who might have any thing against me; I forgive them all." Plaintiff, who was present, said that that was not the time to speak about it, and witness asked her if that was not the time, when would be the time?
Plaintiff there upon became excited and a quarrel ensued. Mr. Remedios asked to be allowed to fetch deceased's daughter, and he did so. When she arrived, she spoke to her father, who said "My darling daughter, why didn't you come before." She replied "Father, you know" and began to cry.

TELEPHONE INCIDENT.

Cross-examined by Mr. Alabator as to his remarks when the telephone incident arose, witness said he said "I am a married man and I would not tolerate my wife interfering in any action which I considered proper. She is not your wife;
I am ashamed of you; you are not a man; if I were in your place I would turn her out."
Deceased replied "I can't help it; I'm sick."Mr. Alabator:—Was there a child there which they said was theirs? — Yes.And did you consider it fair to suggest that your brother should turn out into the street a woman with whom he had been living for ten years, and her child? — Apart from the question of the telephone, they were living together in sin, and it did not matter how long they had been doing so,
they should have been separated.

A LAND TRANSACTION.

On one occasion you were going to see some land with deceased and when you called plaintiff said he was in bed. Deceased called for you to come up and you found him in bed? — Yes.Was he dressed to go out? — No.
Didn't even have his socks on?
— No.Did you urge him to go out? — Yes I insisted that he should go.The doctor had said that he should not go out? — No; he said that he should not go out in wet weather or at night, but when the weather was fine it would be beneficial for him to go out.A few days before his death, did you go into his room and about "What have you to say?"
several times and apparently in a great rage? — I don't remember asking him that.I put it to you plaintiff said
"Don't worry him?" — She said
"This is not the time to talk about this."I put it to you that you said to her "Get away you are nobody?"
— No.Did plaintiff ask your brother if she was to be regarded as master in the house? — Yes.And did your brother say "You are the lady of the house?" — I did not hear my brother reply.Was there a Sister of Mercy present? — Yes.I put it to you that, except for your association with your brother as co-executor of your father's will, you were not on good terms?
— I was always on good terms with my brother.

A PRIEST'S EVIDENCE.

The Rev. Father Bianchi said he had known deceased for seven or eight years. He administered the Last Sacraments to him on the occasion of his first serious illness. Mr. Gutierrez told him that he had provided in his will that Miss Rosa Gutierrez was to receive the income from his property up to the time of her death, when it should go to his children. Shortly before his death witness asked him to pardon his wife and children. Deceased said he would pardon his wife, but the children did not require any pardon from him; they had not injured him in any way.

NOT "MASTER."

Mr. R. Gutierrez, another brother of deceased, spoke of an incident which happened he thought in 1919. Plaintiff had gone to Mass and he was in the garden with deceased. Deceased told the gardener to transfer some plants into larger pots and while he was so doing, plaintiff returned and asked the gardener in an enraged tone who told him to do so. The gardener pointing to deceased said "See Tau" (master).
She became more angry than ever at this and shouted derisively "He the See Tau. He is the Kwai Hung (porpoise man or brothel keeper).
I am the See Tau Poh." Deceased decided to go to bed.His Lordship:—He probably thought that was the safest place.
— (Laughter).Witness, continuing, said that after deceased had gone to bed he was talking to plaintiff in the sitting room when she suddenly asked him to excuse her, took off her slippers, and crept in her stockinged feet upstairs. All of a sudden he heard a bang.His Lordship:—Did she carry her slipper in her hand, then? — (Laughter).Witness described how he ran upstairs and found the man on the floor with plaintiff on top of her, beating her.
He asked her what she was beating the man for, and plaintiff replied that she caught her standing by the side of the bed talking to his brother. "After that," he added, "I decided to go home to Macao the following day." (He had accepted his brother's invitation to stay with him for a week).
The case is proceeding.

KLIM
BRAND
POWDERED MILK

HOW POWDERED MILK IS MADE

Properly pasteurised milk is sprayed under heavy pressure into a chamber through which a current of warm filtered air is passing. The milk is broken up into an almost invisible spray. Each microscopic particle, upon reaching the warm air, loses its moisture instantly by evaporation and the solids fall as a dry powder, the now humid air passing out through a vent.

POWDERED MILK IS SAFE and above all FRESH

Many medical institutions and hospitals use KLIM POWDERED MILK because it represents safety and convenience. Some of them are:—

TYPHOID ON THE PEAK.

TRACING THE INFECTION.

The Medical Officer of Health (Dr. W. W. Pearse) made a statement at yesterday's meeting of the Sanitary Board with regard to typhoid on the Peak. The question arose as the result of the following question put by Dr. W. V. M. Koch:

"In view of the occurrence of several cases of Typhoid Fever and Paratyphoid Fever on the Peak recently will the Head of the Sanitary Department inform the Board whether any investigations have been undertaken to trace the source of infection?"

Dr. Pearse said, that although there had been a great scare recently about an epidemic of typhoid fever on the Peak, the figures up to date were as follows. There was a case last March of paratyphoid fever in the Magazine Gap district. Then there was the case in May of the late Hon. Mr. A. H. Love, presumably infected about the beginning of May.

During the last week or so there had been three cases of the typhoid group at the Peak. One was the case of a man suffering from typhoid who's son caught paratyphoid, and there was a case of a woman living a few hundred yards away. From the point of view of investigation, the case of the man and his son counted as one infection. Enquiries were now being made with the view to tracing, if possible, the source of the infection. He did not hold out any great hope that they would be able to get any really definite information, but Dr. Pearse was now engaged making special enquiries with the view to tracing the possible source of the infection. In the meantime, the premises in the neighbourhood had been inspected in order to discover anything which might possibly account for the contamination of food. They had found some contractors' latrines about half a mile away, which were not quite in accordance with the regulations, and these were now being put right. An enquiry had also been made into the water supply, and it had been established that the disease was not due to any contamination there. Investigations were being pursued and by a process of elimination it might be possible, in a week or two, to suggest to householders the possible source of infection.

Dr. Koch suggested that steps be taken to have the servants examined and their blood tested.

The Medical Officer of Health added that only three cases of typhoid had been notified recently. There had been rumours that several other people had been ill, with typhoid, but he thought that this was nothing more or less than Peak Town gossip. Certain people who had been ill for a month had not been notified as suffering from typhoid or paratyphoid.

Mr. N. L. Smith presided over the meeting and there were also present Dr. Koch, Mr. C. G. Alabaster, K.C., Mr. S. W. T. Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, Dr. W. W. Pearse (Medical Officer of Health) and Mr. G. Kennedy Skipton (Secretary).

POPULAR FALLACIES.

Typical Examples Pilloried.

Mr. A. E. Ackermann, who for eleven years was Hon. Gen. Secretary of the University of London Graduate's Association, and who is now Deputy Chairman of Convocation of the University of London, has made a life study of "Popular Fallacies," and his volume bearing this title is a classic on the subject. In the following article, prepared for the British Science Guild, and published by the London Morning Post, he describes a number of popular opinions that are fundamentally untrue in substance and in fact, but that have shown extraordinary vitality for a long number of years. He writes:

A popular fallacy or error is something that is generally thought to be true, but which in fact is not, and it is remarkable for how long error may continue. Many such mistakes, for example, most historical fallacies, do not involve any scientific principle. The discussion of the fallacy that King John signed Magna Charta does not require a knowledge of elementary science, but when we are dealing with the fallacy that a thick glass tumbler can stand hot water better than a thin one, then we must have the assistance of science.

Suppose hot water is put into a thick glass tumbler. It may not remain there long due to its action on the glass, but even in the short time the water raises the temperature of the inside of the glass to a higher degree than that of the outside and as most substances expand on being heated, the inside surface of the tumbler gets bigger than it was before while the outside surface remains the same in temperature and therefore in size. Consequently a condition of stress is set up in the glass; the inside of the tumbler tries to enlarge and the outside resists this, so that the hotter inside layers are in compression, while the outside ones are in tension, and the tension, and the tensile strength of glass being less than its compressive strength, the tumbler breaks by giving way to the tension at one or more places which are then called cracks. If it yielded in compression the glass would be crushed into a fine white powder at the points of fracture.

One point remains to be explained. Many might ask why the hot inside of the tumbler does not nearly equally warm the outside. The reason is that glass is a bad conductor of heat; that is, it takes a long time for the heat to get through the thick glass to the outer layers. When the glass is thin, like that of a chemist's beaker, then the heat does get through to the whole of the glass sufficiently quickly to expand the outer layers, and thus allow room for the enlarged inner layers, without producing a tensile stress in the outer layers greater than the glass can bear. A few tumblers are made of metal, say pewter or aluminium. Boiling water may be poured into them without ill effect. Why? Because most metals are good conductors of heat, and generally are far more elastic than glass. That is, a metal will permit far more change of shape (technically known as strain) without breaking, than glass.

HOW COLD WORKS.

From heat we may pass to an example in connection with cold, and so passing it may be of interest to point out that there is no such thing as cold per se. Cold is merely absence of heat, and heat is electronic motion; the greater and more rapid the motion the hotter the body is said to be. Similarly, there is no such thing as darkness. A dark place is only one in which there is little or no light, light again being an effect of vibration, only the vibrations which produce the sensation of light are very much more rapid than those which cause us to say a body is hot.

The fallacy in connection with cold which I have in mind is of considerable age and wide belief, namely that if a person is frost-bitten, the best thing to do is for him or someone else to rub the affected part with snow. I have been told that in Canada a stranger will sometimes go up to a man and start rubbing the latter's nose without ceremony, but with snow, for it often happens that the victim of the frost-bite is unaware that he is frost-bitten. The reason given for use of snow is that it would be damaging to the flesh if its temperature were raised too rapidly. This is probably true, but does rubbing with snow raise the temperature of the frost-bitten nose? Many in formulating their reply, "Yes," probably think of the warmth produced by friction. Try the experiment of rubbing your fingers on a table or the palm of one hand on the fingers of the other, and notice how hard and fast you have to rub in order to produce a sensation of warmth. In these cases the friction between the bodies is comparatively great so that some heat results, but snow is slippery and to produce any appreciable amount of heat by rubbing it on anything you would indeed have to rub hard and fast and if you were to rub a frost-bitten nose so hard and fast the last state of that nose would certainly be worse than its first.

The proper treatment should not merely prevent further loss of heat, but should, if possible, give heat. Hence, the best treatment for frost-bite is to hold the hands on the part affected and massage it lightly after it has thawed, so as to encourage a return of the circulation, and to get indoors as soon as possible.

We have referred to darkness being merely absence of light. This calls to mind another fallacy which needs a little science by which to explain why it is a mistake, namely, that a cat sees better in the dark than in the light. If it were stated that a cat sees better in a very dim light than a human being, the statement would be true. The process of seeing consists of letting an image of the object seen fall upon the retinae of our eyes. To do this there must be enough light reflected from the object through the lenses of our eyes on to the retinae, and the lenses must be so adjusted that they produce an image which is in focus on the retinae. This is analogous to getting the scene to be photographed into focus on the ground glass plate at the back of a camera. The light both in the case of an eye and camera passes through a little black hole (a hole cannot be black, but forgive the expression for the present purpose) called the pupil in the case of an eye and the stop in the case of a camera. When the light is very strong, the stop used is small, and when the light is weak the stop is large, so as to admit more of the feeble rays. The pupil of the human eye varies considerably and automatically for this purpose, and so it does in the case of the cat, but as the cat is nocturnal in its habits and hunts at night Nature has provided it with a much larger range of adjustment of the pupil, from a more vertical slit to nearly the whole area of the iris or coloured part of the eye, and thus the cat is able to see far better in a dim light than we are. In the absolute absence of light a cat could not see at all, nor could we, but her whiskers would enable her to feel her way about, while we use our hands in such circumstances for the same purpose.

PEERAGE ROMANCE.

Girl's Claim To Be Earl's Descendant.

In the Court of Session at Edinburgh, recently, Lord Morrison heard evidence in undefended action brought by Constance Mary Lyon, of Elmfield-avenue, Aberdeen, to have it declared that she was the eldest lawful daughter of Hubert Ernest Bowes-Lyon.

It was stated that Mr. Bowes-Lyon is the eldest son of the third son of the 13th Earl of Strathmore.

Constance Lyon pleaded that, having been legitimised by the marriage contracted consequent to her birth between her parents, the respondent, Hubert Ernest Bowes-Lyon, and the late Mary Agnes Hay Smooton (or Bowes-Lyon), she was entitled to the peerage.

She said that for as long as she remembered she lived in Aberdeen and was at present employed as a shop assistant.

She did not remember seeing her father or mother, but from earliest recollection her name was Constance Lyon.

It was her desire to establish her relationship to Mr. Hubert Bowes-Lyon and his wife, and she was anxious to have her status as a legitimate child declared.

Henry Bain, an agent in Aberdeen, said that in October 1900 he married the daughter of the late Mrs. Collicie. About the end of 1904 Mrs. Collicie received a letter signed "Lizzie Mackie," stating that she and Miss Smooton would call with a baby, and asking Mrs. Collicie to take the child and bring her up.

THE CHILD'S EDUCATION.
The latter said that the intention was to take the child away when she was five years old, as her parents desired her to have a better education.

Mrs. Collicie agreed to take the child, and Miss Smooton handed it over. The name Lyon was mentioned. Nothing was said at the time as to the child's parentage, but, added Mr. Bain, he was told later that Miss Smooton was Mrs. Lyon.

From time to time, he continued, sums of money were sent to the child by Mrs. Lyon. The amount paid full into arrears, and Mrs. Collicie agreed to reduce it to 4s. a week.

At the request of Mrs. Lyon, the child in 1905 was taken on a visit to a doctor in Edinburgh, where witness saw Mr. Bowes-Lyon, and Mrs. Lyon. On the death of Mrs. Collicie Mr. Bain and his wife took charge of the child.

Mr. Charles Paterson, chartered accountant, of Edinburgh, said he was acquainted with Mr. Hubert Bowes-Lyon, who was the eldest son of Ernest Bowes-Lyon. The latter was the third son of the 13th Earl of Strathmore.

Mr. Hubert Bowes-Lyon was for some time in the Black Watch, and was stationed in Edinburgh Castle in 1904. Witness found out later that he married a Miss Smooton, of Edinburgh.

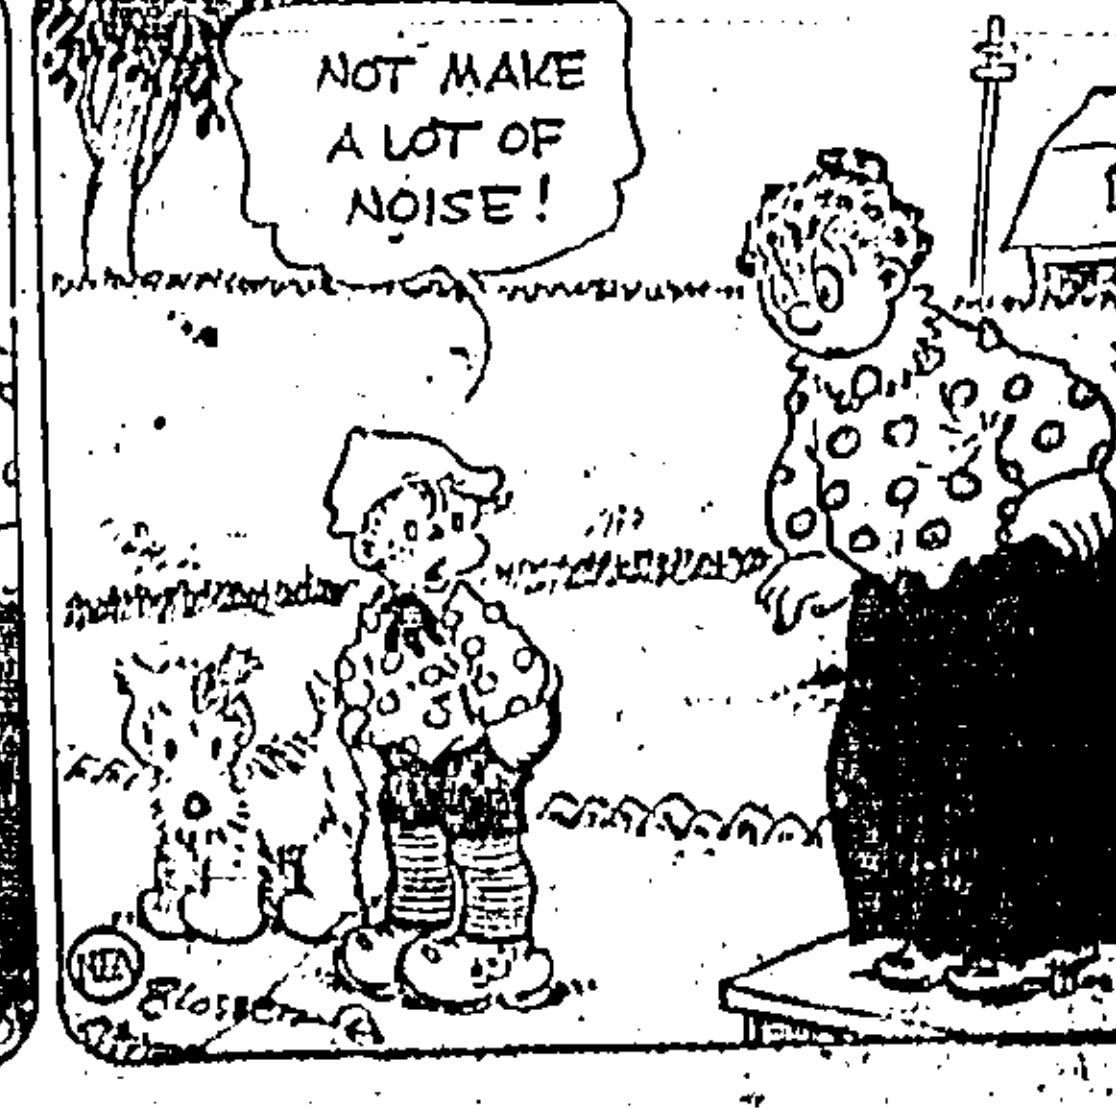

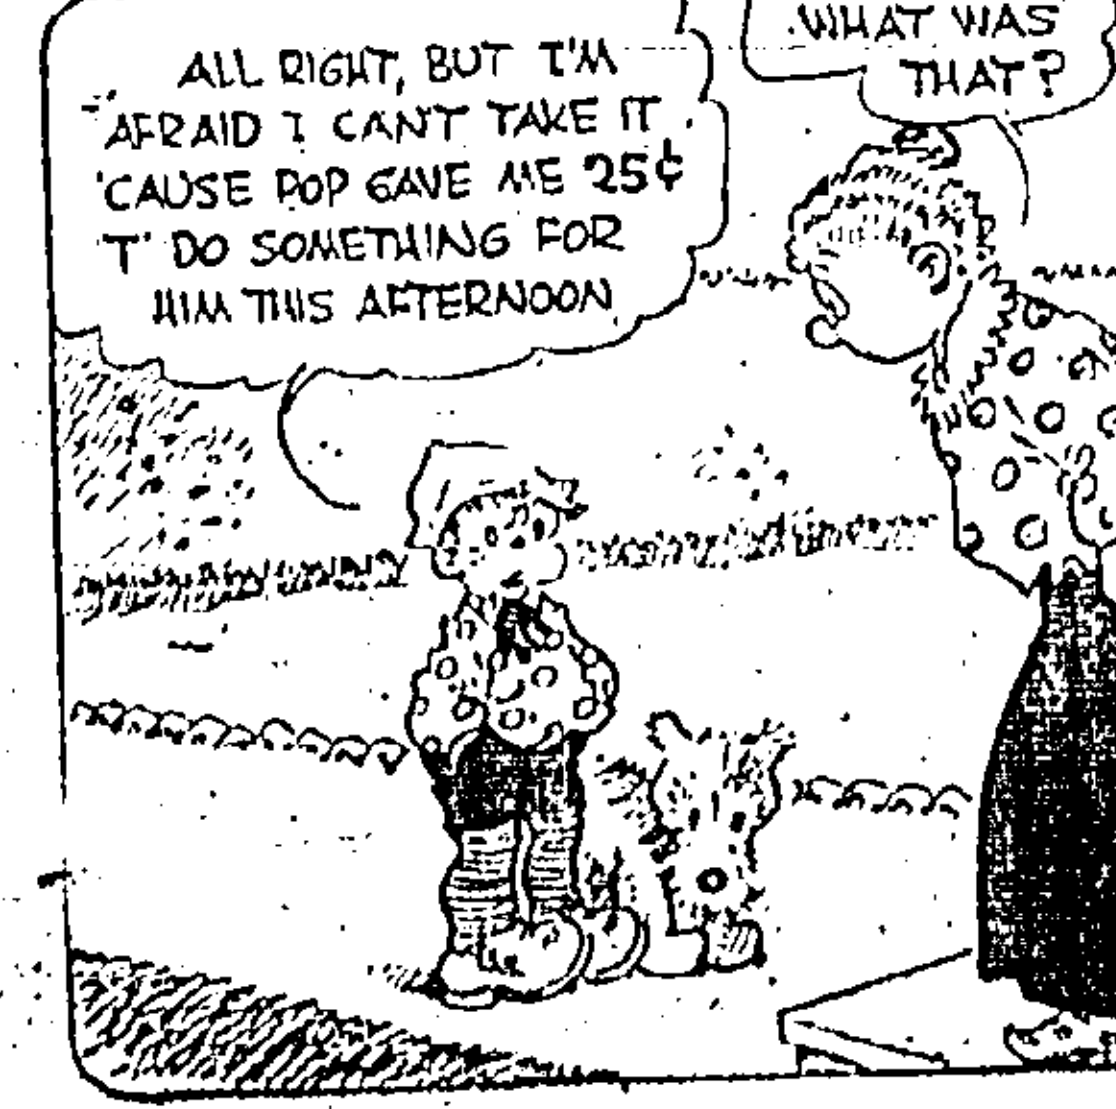

Mr. Paterson added that he did not know of the petitioner's existence until last year, when her solicitors showed him a certificate of her birth.

Another witness gave evidence of the death of Mr. Hubert Bowes-Lyon's wife in 1914. Her marriage took place in London in January 1905.

The case was adjourned for further evidence.

THE SINGAPORE BASE.

London, July 15.

In the House of Lords Viscount Chelmsford said it was unreasonable to ask him to mention the exact date when the Government intended to reconsider the question of developing the Singapore base. It would be necessary, in pursuance of the Premier's policy, to approach more than one foreign power.

Replying to Earl Balfour, Viscount Chelmsford explained that in any extension of the policy of the Washington conference, it might be necessary that the five Powers represented at Washington should be brought into conference again.

Earl Balfour denied that the Washington pact had any bearing whatever on the question of Singapore. Why should other Powers be consulted? The matter was one between ourselves and the Dominions (Cheers).

The Lord Chancellor said the question of the boundary line of the Pacific, as agreed to at Washington, had nothing to do with the matter. The Government must consider the effect on the Empire's general foreign policy of the establishment of a base which would be for offence even more than defence. It was essential the base should be made a great instrument for offensive possibilities, from which the most far reaching operations could be conducted. That might be a desirable policy from a certain viewpoint, but it could not be reconciled with the new view of foreign policy taken by the Government, which contemplated bringing about a better situation which would make Singapore much less important than it now seemed to be. The Government's policy might fail, but the Government meant to stand or fall upon it.—Reuter.

GERMANY'S NEW BANK.

Berlin, July 15.

The German Bill for the establishment of a new Gold Note Bank has been submitted to the Reparations Commission. The Bank will be conducted along the lines of the Reichsbank and its directorate will be exclusively German, but it will be supervised by a General Council of fourteen members comprising seven Germans, and seven appointed by the United States, Britain, Italy, France, Belgium, Switzerland and Holland as creditors of the new Bank. The President of the Reichsbank, Herr Schacht, is the president-designate of the General Council. The Bank will be completely independent of the German government and will issue so-called Reichsmarknoten and coins, to the value of five milliards of goldmarks, which must be covered to one third by gold and foreign currencies. The bank's capital will be 800,000,000 gold marks, to be raised by an international loan.—Reuter.

BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

London, July 15.

Although the visitors to the British Empire Exhibition have averaged three-quarters of a million weekly, the bad weather during the earlier months curtailed the anticipated attendance, inclining the authorities to modify their original estimate of thirty million during the season. A movement is now afoot to continue the Exhibition next year to enable the heavy expenditure entailed by exhibitors to be spread over two years. The Prince of Wales yesterday supported the movement and in a speech declared that although he had visited Wembley six or seven times, he felt he had not made much headway in seeing it all. Lord Stevenson, President of the Exhibition administrative board applauded the Prince's suggestion to reopen the Exhibition next year.—Reuter.

THE BRAZILIAN REVOLT.

New York, July 15.

Owing to the Brazilian revolt causing fears of the shortening of supplies in consuming countries, coffee futures are strong and active. Yesterday's advance was attended with heavy covering and European buying. FLOODS IN CHINA.

TIENTSIN SITUATION UNCHANGED.

Peking, July 15.

Almost continuous rain for thirteen days is causing dangerous floods in North China. The Yangtze river is threatening to overflow, which would flood Nanyang and the districts to the west of Peking.

Traffic on the Peking-Hankow Railway has been suspended owing to washways, also on the Peking-Suiyuan Railway.

Telegrams from Kalgan state that the whole city south of the river is severely damaged and the railway line covered with debris to the depth of three feet. The floors of houses still standing are covered with four feet of mud. The loss of life, however, is not great and all foreigners are safe. The damage is estimated at a million dollars.

The dykes in the vicinity of Tientsin appear to be in danger of carrying away, which would result in the flooding of the British, French, Japanese and former German concessions.—Reuter.

Tientsin, July 15.—The Chinese authorities have agreed to make preparations in readiness for cutting the dyke at Pei Yun-ho in order to allow the floodwaters to escape seaward. The British Council has sent out a corps of coolies who worked all last night in strengthening the local dykes. There has been no more rain but the situation is unchanged.—Reuter.

Later—Chinese and foreign officials conferred this morning and agreed to repair the outer and inner dykes around the city.

The Haihe Conservancy's engineer, M. Pincione, recommends cutting the dyke of the Peiyunho, etc.

The Peking and Tientsin Times asserts that this is the only way of saving Tientsin, and advocates immediate cutting, and the placing of guards to prevent attacks by the moved to the city for safety.

The German Bund to-day was absolutely cleared in order to build a dyke if necessary.

Many firms have already removed their cargo to the upper storages of their godowns.—Daily Bulletin.

Hankow, July 15.—Communications on the Kiang railway have been interrupted south of the Yellow River owing to floods.—Reuter.

ALLEGED DISHONEST PARTNER.

"A DISGRACEFUL CASE."

Inability to serve the subpoena on one of his witnesses, was the explanation given by Mr. G. H. Haywood when he appeared before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistrate yesterday afternoon to prosecute Lam Tak-yin, a managing partner of a druggist shop at No. 233 Hollywood Road, and applied to withdraw the case.

Defendant was charged with embezzling several hundreds of dollars during the firm's three years' existence. He was alleged to have cheated his other partners on no less than 150 occasions. The exact sum involved is not known.

At the previous hearings the Magistrate ordered that only the sums embezzled during the last year be the subject of the charge. The total amount involved in 1923 was $2,700, said to have taken nine times to embezzle.

At two previous hearings the case was adjourned as the firm's accountant, the prosecution's material witness, failed to appear. After the last hearing the Magistrate issued a subpoena, which was not served upon the man concerned.

Mr. Haywood said that as the subpoena was not served the prosecution would offer no evidence against the defendant, but would take proceedings against him later if necessary.

Mr. Russ said that the next person to take proceedings would be his client, and not others.

Mr. Haywood remarked that the Magistrate did not know the facts of the case, and that he was not withdrawing because the case was a bad one, to which Mr. Russ replied that the case had been very suspicious from the beginning. It was an extraordinary thing to take out a summons, and then not produce any witnesses.

Calling the complainant, another partner of the firm, his Worship said that the case was a disgraceful one that should never have been brought to court. He had brought his solicitor to court twice for nothing. He (the Magistrate) would award the defendant the $6 costs, which was all that he had the power to award.

Turning to the defendant, his Worship said that the case was dismissed.

PUBLIC DISINFECTION.

THE GOVERNMENT'S MONEY!

At yesterday's meeting of the Sanitary Board, presided over by Mr. N. L. Smith, the following question, of which notice had been given, was put by Dr. W. V. M. Koch:

"Is it feasible to place the services of the Disinfecting Staff of the Department at the disposal of householders when required?"

The Chairman, replying, said that in cases of notifiable disease disinfection was at once carried out. Even if a medical practitioner mentioned a case of infection which did not happen to be notifiable, such as, for instance, measles or something of that kind, the Department had never refused as far as he knew, to disinfect and always had done so. If Dr. Koch's question meant that whenever a householder happened to think it was necessary he could call upon the Disinfecting Staff to disinfect his premises, the answer to the question was in the negative. The Department was continually receiving requests from members of the public, whose families suffered from symptoms which might be extraordinarily alike, to fumigate their quarters. The illness might have been due to the eating of fish or drinking too much samshui. He wished to make it quite clear that without the advice of a medical practitioner it was almost impossible to undertake disinfection at the whim of any member of the public.

Payment of Course.

Dr. Koch mentioned that there were suspicious cases in which it might be undertaken, adding, "There will be payment, of course. We are not going to do it as a pastime."

"I should strongly object to any question of payment," said Dr. W. V. M. Pearce, the Medical Officer of Health. "If any reasonable request is sent in suggesting that a certain definite disease has occurred, even though eventually it is not definitely established, I should be quite glad to consider the advisability of disinfection, but I am not prepared to spend the time of officers of this Department on the streets of this Department, on carrying out what the public calls disinfection simply because Mr. A. or Mr. B. or Mr. C. says he considers disinfection should be carried out."

Dr. Pearce mentioned that very often a message came down to him practically ordering him to fumigate. In the minds of the general public fumigation and disinfection were synonymous. The public knew nothing at all about fumigation and disinfection; in fact so little did it know that it was exploited and wasted a lot of money every year on what was known as spurious disinfection. To the general public anything that produced some sort of chemical smell was disinfection. That was not his view. If he had reason to think there was any disease occurring in a house and some sort of disinfection was advisable, he was prepared to instruct that it should be done, but he would not, unless he received the direct orders of the Government so to do, waste the stores and time of that Department in carrying out some sort of spurious disinfection at the whim of any member of the public.

Dr. Koch pointed out that the stores were provided by public money and existed for the benefit of the health of the people of this Colony.

Replying to Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, who asked if the Medical Officer of Health could investigate the cases reported, Dr. Pearce said he had not the time to place his services at the disposal of the public to give

RECENT CAKE SCARE.

CASES OF SUPPOSED FOOD POISONING.

At a meeting of the Sanitary Board yesterday, a discussion took place in regard to a number of cases of alleged food poisoning. The matter was brought up by Dr. W. V. M. Koch, who, in accordance with notice, asked the following question:

"As many cases of acute gastro-enteritis occurred a few weeks ago in the City, resembling ptomaine poisoning in symptoms, have any reports been sent in to the Medical Officer of Health, and have any investigations been made?"

Dr. Pearce, the Medical Officer of Health, in reply, said a certain number of cases reported to be suffering from food poisoning, had been brought to his notice, which was thought to be due to the eating of a special kind of cake made with custard and cream. The cakes had been examined by the Government Bacteriologist and the Government Analyst and the examination was negative. That was to say that there was present in the cakes no bacteria which would occasion what was commonly called food poisoning. As far as he could gather from some medical men who described their cases to him, and from interviewing people who had suffered, he was of the opinion that this outbreak was more in the nature of a nonbacterial poisoning than bacterial poisoning.

A Peculiar Poison.

The rapid onset of the disease and the rapid recovery pointed to some thing like ptomaine poisoning, as distinct from bacterial poisoning. The chemist advised him that there were present in the cakes no mineral or alkaloid poisoning, thus doing away with the suspicion prevalent in the Colony that the baker who had made these cakes had accidentally, or through the fault of someone employed in the bakery, mixed with the cakes something which was poisonous. The chemist also advised him that an examination of some of the cakes, particularly those made of butter, had shown that there was a considerable degree of acidity. It gave a reaction which suggested that there might be present a poison called pyrotoxin. This was a certain poison which occurred in ice cream, butter and cheese in very rare cases. The poison was unstable, and rapidly disappeared under heat and moisture, but when it was present it was in very, very small quantities. Acting upon this presumption, although the chemist was of the opinion pyrotoxin was present, on account of the cream or custard having given a certain reaction which accounted for the poisoning, and was unable to confirm his suspicions, the chemist, with himself and various other interested people, went down to the bakery. There they saw the process of manufacture of similar cakes, they inspected the bakery and found nothing there which could account for any harm coming from the cakes. Everything was perfectly clean.

Restaurant Butter.

It was impossible to prove their suspicion that this particular poison was present in the butter. Some of the people who suffered from sickness to a greater or less degree did not take any of these particular custard cakes; some had only taken toast and butter, but nevertheless they had suffered to a greater or less degree from symptoms of nausea or nausea plus diarrhoea. The Medical Officer of Health said that he found on enquiry the butter supplied to this particular bakery for the manufacture of the cakes was very largely used in Hongkong. As a matter of fact the firm which imported the butter sold about 600 pounds a day. It was not the best butter obtainable, but it was a good cooking butter and in all probability, when any of them went into a restaurant in the Colony, this was the kind of butter that they got. He had heard that some hundreds of cases of food poisoning had occurred throughout the Colony, but only one medical man had reported to him about it, so that there were only a small number of cases upon which he could base his enquiries. Supposing that the poison did exist in the butter, it was impossible, the Medical officer of Health said, for the importers or bakers to tell if the butter was bad. It would look good and smell good; it would only be by submitting the butter, before use, to a chemical examination that they could discover it was bad. His opinion was not conclusive, but it was strongly suggested to him that it was merely an accident which could not have been avoided, and no blame whatever could be attached to the bakery, either to the management or the cooks employed in making the cakes.

Dr. Koch remarked that he was pleased to hear the sound opinion expressed by the Medical Officer of Health. He himself had had several cases. In one instance, the cakes were ordered from quite a different restaurant from the one referred to. There was another case in which the poisoning resulted from eating lobster kept for some hours.

ARRIVAL OF THE DELEGATES IN LONDON.

London, July 15.
There is much activity in Downing Street in preparation for the Inter-Allied Conference to-morrow. The weekly meeting of the Cabinet was held to-day, instead of to-morrow, in order to leave Mr. MacDonald free to devote his whole attention to the conference. It is understood the Cabinet discussed the questions of foreign policy likely to be raised at the conference. Mr. Thomas had a further meeting with Dominion representatives at the Colonial Office with regard to representation of the Dominions at the conference, regarding which over a hundred foreign official visitors will be in London by to-morrow.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald.

It is expected the following will represent their countries:— Britain, Messrs. Ramsay MacDonald and Snowden; the United States, Mr. Kellogg and M. Herriot and Clemental; Marshal Foch; Italy, Signor

Colonel Logan; France, M. General Nollet and possibly Destefani, the Finance Minister Donava, and Marchese Della Toretta; Japan, Baron Hayaashi and Viscount Ishii; Belgium, M. M. Theunis and Hymans; while Portugal, Serbia, Rumania and Greece will also be represented. — Reuter.

London, July 15.

The French delegation to the conference were welcomed at Victoria station by Mr. MacDonald and the French Embassy officials. Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot exchanged most cordial greetings. The crowd shouted "Vive Herriot!" and "Good old Ramsay!"

The delegation does not include Marshal Foch, but his Chief of Staff General Desticker. The Italian and Belgian delegations have also arrived in London, and were welcomed by representatives of the Premier. — Reuter.

HUNTING THE PIRATES.

CHINESE AND BRITISH GUNBOATS.

A report to hand from Canton indicates that measures are being taken to clear out pirates from a number of well-known strongholds.

It is said that a fleet of Chinese gunboats, with a hundred troops aboard, and accompanied by two British gunboats, have left Canton to cruise in the Shun Tak and Hongkwan districts for the purpose of tracking down the

STRIKE ON SHAMEEN.

CHINESE EMPLOYEES LEAVE.

Protest Against New Regulations.

The foreign community on the little Settlement of Shameen are now in the throes of a general strike, as all Chinese employees, including household servants and office assistants, ceased work yesterday as a protest against the new Police Permit Regulations.

As a consequence, practically everything on the Shameen is now at a standstill, and already a number of lady residents have left for Hongkong several arriving here last night by steamer. Business is, of course, stopped, and it is stated that the Labour Guilds, who have organised the strike, will not permit any Chinese to go to the Shameen until the regulations are cancelled.

THE EXIT.

On Sunday last, a big Labour meeting was held in Canton in connection with the new Shameen regulations, and it was later generally known that there was a possibility of a general strike of all natives employed on the Settlement. Yesterday morning, a notice appears to have been sent round to the Chinese employees, informing them that they must cease work at 6 p.m. However, several went on strike long before that hour, and at four o'clock the whole of the Dairy Farm staff went out, including the assistants, engineers, etc. The services of British bluejackets were, however, secured for the purpose of keeping the ice plant running. The head office of the Company in Hongkong has been kept fully informed of developments, and special supplies of meat and other produce have been sent up, as well as a European butcher and a number of other men to keep things going. The Company is doing all in its power to maintain an adequate supply of food for residents.

WHAT THE SERVANTS RESSENT.

Considerable inconvenience has, of course, resulted to household establishments on the island, as all the Chinese servants, cooks, boys, amahs, etc., have left work and come into the city. In one instance, a married man, whose wife was in Hongkong, was left with a baby on his hands when the amah went on strike, and he had to arrange for a lady friend to bring the child down to its mother in Hongkong last night. The servants, before their departure from Shameen, informed their employers that what they most resented in the regulations was the requirement that they had to supply three photographs of themselves in connection with the permits and that one of these was to be kept by the police—a fact which, they said, classed them with criminals.

LABOUR ACTIVITY.

Ever since the regulations were first mooted, the Chinese have been opposed to them, and the Labour organisations have been most active in working up propaganda on the subject. A society named the People's Anti-Shameen Regulations Association has been formed to take up the whole question. This body has issued a manifesto in which appears much matter relating to the alleged oppression of the Chinese by foreigners, and which calls upon all Chinese to rise together to fight for the abolition of the "wicked" regulations and the restoration of human liberty, failing the accomplishment of which, they threaten to resort to the last means that is, by leaving Shameen altogether, to refrain from getting employment from foreigners and to refuse to be governed by them.

"EMPRESS" CAPTAIN HONOURED.

Captain S. Robinson, C.B.E., R.N.R., the commander of the Empress of Canada, who so worthily upheld the tradition of the British Mercantile Marine during the Japanese earthquake whilst in command of the Empress of Australia, was to-day invested with the silver Life Saving Medal of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem by His Excellency—the Governor, the ceremony taking place on board the Empress of Canada.

His Excellency the Governor was accompanied by Capt. Noville, and there were also present the Hon. Sir Claud Savern, the Hon. Mr. Holyoak, His Honour Mr. H. J. Gompertz, Mr. P. A. Cox, Commodore Grace, the Hon. Mr. H. W. Bird, the Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, Lieut. Commander Conway Hake, Mr. R. M. Dyer, Mr. J. Reid, Dr. Pearce, Dr. Grove, Pay-Lieut. Commander R. E. Worthington and many prominent business men of the Colony.

Mr. P. A. Cox, the general agent of the Company in Hongkong, read a letter which was sent to Sir Thomas Fisher, K.B.E., mentioning that the Earl of Scarborough, Sub-Prior, and the General Chapter had approved the award and expressing the wish that it should be presented on some suitable occasion. Continuing, Mr. Cox said that although they knew other steamers rendered valuable services in Tokyo at the time of the disaster, the Canadian Pacific Steamships were proud of the fact that Capt. Robinson had been awarded this Order. Everyone would agree that he worthily upheld the traditions of the Mercantile Marine.

Pinning the order to the Captain's breast, His Excellency expressed the pleasure it afforded him in investing the gallant captain with the medal, and said that that he would like to add to those Capt. Robinson had already received, his congratulations on the courage, skill and seamanship which he displayed during the Japanese earthquake and fire. As Mr. Cox had already said, Capt. Robinson had upheld all the glorious traditions of the Mercantile Marine.

Capt. Robinson was then congratulated by those present, and the company later adjourned to tiffin aboard the magnificent liner.

OUR NEW CHIEF JUSTICE.

Sir Henry Gollan's Fine Career.

There will shortly arrive in Hongkong our new Chief Justice, Sir Henry Cowper Gollan C.B.E., K.C., until lately the Attorney-General of Ceylon. His past career shows Sir Henry to be an official of wide experience and considerable ability, and his appointment to this Colony is a distinct acquisition for the administration.

The new Chief Justice, whose portrait is given above, was born at Coquilme, Chile, on January 8th, 1868, the son of the late Sir Alexander Gollan, K.C.M.G., but at the age of six years was sent home to England, later proceeding to Charterhouse for his education, which was completed at Edinburgh University.

He took up the study of Law, and was called to the Bar in 1891, practising for a time on the Northern Circuit ere going to London, where, it is interesting to note, he was a contemporary of Sir Skinner Turner of Shanghai. Sir Henry's service in the Colonies commenced in 1899, when he was appointed Private Secretary to Sir Frederick (then Colonel) Lugard, the British Commissioner in Northern Nigeria, and later Governor of Hongkong, so that the new Chief Justice may be said to have already formed a link with this Colony. Those days in Nigeria were exacting ones, a period of acute political tension when the different European nations were consolidating their footing in Africa, and the young official was soon tried, and not found wanting. His service there was a record of which he can justly be proud, and in the short space of a year and month he raised himself from the position of Private Secretary to the Commissioner to that of Chief Justice in a Protectorate with about ten million inhabitants. One of the first tasks set him was the preparation of a Criminal Code for the Protectorate, and this he accomplished so ably that it met with the special thanks of the then Secretary of State for the Colonies, who later found reason for commending some further work of Sir Henry's in establishing a Supreme and Provincial Court of Justice and framing important local legislation.

Sir Henry Gollan left Nigeria in 1904, to become the Chief Justice of Bermuda, where he served seven years, proceeding in 1911 to Trinidad, where he remained until 1918, in which year he was appointed to Ceylon as Attorney General. During the past six years he has done a great deal of legislative work in the sister Colony, and he leaves with expressions of appreciation for his services on all sides. His Knighthood, received in 1921, was the occasion for hearty congratulations on this recognition of long and able work in the Colonial service.

In the course of a lengthy tribute to Sir Henry Gollan, the Sunday Illustrated (Colombo) in a recent issue, said:—"It is strange how little we in Ceylon know of the lives of each other, and it is as well, perhaps, that some little light should be thrown upon the career of one of the most able and most popular Attorneys-General Ceylon has ever had, before he passes from us—perhaps, however, one day to return as Chief Justice—to a new sphere of activity. Hongkong is to be congratulated, but congratulations from Ceylon will be given grudgingly."
